MODEL HOVERCRAFT ASSOCIATION

If you are interested in any aspect of model hovercraft, whether it be by research, design, building, or operating, then the Model Hovercraft Association (MHA) is for you. This is true if you are an already established expert, or are just starting out.

Increasing levels of interest in radio controlled hovercraft prompted by advances in model propulsion and control systems, led to the launch of an organisation to carry these developments forward.

Following an Inaugural Meeting In September 2004, the MHA was formed.

The principal aims and objectives of the MHA include:

The encouragement of interest in the building and operating of model hovercraft.

Research, education and discussion on the design,operating and trading aspects of model hovercraft and the understanding of the technical principles involved.

To hold meetings to further the objectives above and to present papers, films, videos, etc. and to exchange information.

Regular distribution of a Newsletter.

Establishment of a database and library for books, photographic materials and papers on the history and development of model hovercraft.
